

Call for Workshops

The aim of this symposium is to provide a forum for researchers and technologists to present new ideas and contributions in the form of technical papers, panel discussions, as well as real-world evaluation in the field of wireless communications, networking and signal processing. This 14th symposium will bring together various wireless communication systems developers to discuss the current status, technical challenges, standards, fundamental issues, and future services and applications.

Proposals for Workshops are invited in the following Tracks:

- Track1 – Communication Theory, Signal Processing, Information Theory, Antennas and Propagation
- Track2 – Networks, Protocols, Internet of Things, Services and Applications

Workshops may address one or both Tracks, but they should be organised under a unified theme.

Workshops may include invited speakers, papers, and panels. The structure of workshops is not fixed, and proponents may design it as they think best. In all cases, part of the workshop should be open to submissions through an open call.

Workshop papers should be reviewed by the Workshop Technical Programme Committee. These papers will be part of the Conference Proceedings (if the authors wish to do so), but they will not be uploaded to IEEE Xplore.

Workshops may extend for either a full- or a half-day. They will be held on the first day of the symposium, i.e., August 28th, 2017.

Submission Guidelines

Workshop proposals should be submitted via a specific template, available at the website. The proposal should be submitted by the deadline, to the Workshops Chair, via email (see below).

Key Dates

- Workshops proposals: Friday, March 3, 2017
- Workshops notification: Friday, March 17, 2017
- Paper submission: Friday, April 28, 2017
- Acceptance notification (special sessions): Friday, June 16, 2017
